CXO Global Solutions Commissions Art to Support Charitable Giving

New corporate headquarters will feature artwork by local artist, Jeffrey Owen Hanson

Overland Park, Kan., December 18, 2008 – CXO Global Solutions, a strategic business advisory and integrated, managed services firm specializing in customer experience and lifecycle management, is making its first commitment to local corporate citizenship, commissioning five canvas paintings from young local artist Jeffrey Owen Hanson. A portion of the proceeds from Jeffrey’s various works are donated to charities such as Make-a-Wish Foundation, Children’s Tumor Foundation and KC Blind All-Stars Foundation, to name a few.

Jeffrey is a 15-year-old Overland Park resident who was diagnosed as a small child with a genetic disorder called Neurofibromatosis. The condition caused an optic tumor which has rendered him legally blind. In the midst of his struggles, Jeffrey discovered a talent for art and has established a thriving clientele for his note cards, calendars and canvases. His distinctive style has earned him great praise.

“We’re very proud to feature Jeffrey’s artwork in our offices where our employees and clients can enjoy it,” says CXO Global Solutions President and Chief Executive Officer, Bryan DiGiorgio. “We chose Jeffrey’s work both for his incredible talent and the fact that the proceeds for much of his work go to worthy causes. That is core to the culture we are building at CXO Global Solutions.”
